Thousands of tenants with leases expiring on Oct. I. next, are experiencing coercive tactics on the part of gouging landlords. In many of the leases is a clause compelling tenants to give notice of their intentions as to renewals on or before April 1.

Under this clause landlords are trying to force lenants to sign new leases with 90 to 100 per cent increases under threat of forcing thun to vacale apartments and to rent them to new tenants.

This phase of the gouging was called to the attention of Attorney Sammia of the joint legislative committee at Albany to-day. Mr. Sammis wires:

Tell tenants not to sign leases now. The landlords cannot bring any action until Oct. 1. Although he may threaten to put the tenant out to make way for a new tenant, the new laws provide that the present tenant must be granted a stay not to exceed a year. The whole question of the increase will be reviewed by the court. THE TENANT IS FULLY PROTECTED.
